VERSE

"He's My Dad/Pop"

Written by Jac Judy A Campbell

read by Sheila Buntin and Chris Little

Muddy boots and overalls, he stood about six two
He was a country bumpkin; hard work was what he knew
A mechanic, a painter, a jack of many trades
Countless hours of hard labour with not much time to play
He was a husband, the father of five
He raised a crew of workers with a loving wife
A strong voice in their raising, a firm hand when in need
From tiny tots through growing years, he taught them to behave

He was a proud and simple guy, content with what he has
He strived to build a better life for his children and his wife
He taught us all responsibility and to stand on our two feet
Hold strong to what I believed in and always pay what's due
And we should love everybody but only trust a few
He wasn't much on chit chat; his words were few and far between

A deep and silent thinker, his thoughts were plans and dreams
His heart was kind and thoughtful, a humanitarian indeed
His generous nature of giving, helping those in need
But most important, what matters most
He was Poppy Steve to me.
